GENDER PAY GAP REPORT 2022

GENDER PAY GAP REPORT FOR 2022

QUIZ (or the “Group”) is pleased to present its annual report on the gender pay gap across its employees.

At QUIZ, we are committed to treating everyone fairly and ensuring that everyone – no matter what their background, race, ethnicity or gender – has the same opportunities to progress, develop and enjoy a rewarding career. In our data, we have found no inconsistency between how we pay men and women for the same role. However, there is an overall pay gap across the Group driven by the structure of our workforce.

HOURLY PAY GAP

We have compared the average pay of all the women we employ with the average pay for all the men (for both mean and median calculations). This is calculated amongst all of QUIZ’s employees in England, Scotland and Wales¹.

As noted below, the pay gap highlighted above can largely be attributed to:

- Firstly, a higher proportion of men working at head office where roles are generally higher paid
- Secondly, the differing age profiles between men and women in the QUIZ workforce given the lower rates of pay that generally apply to those aged under 25.

¹ In the year being reported QUIZ comprises of three trading companies; Zandra Retail Limited (stores), Tarak Retail Limited (UK concessions) and Tarak International Limited (web and international sales). Of these companies only Zandra Retail Limited has more than 250 employees and are required to report upon their gender pay information. This report comprises information on the three trading companies combined to provide an overview of the Gender Pay gap for the QUIZ Group.

UNDERSTANDING OUR GENDER PAY GAP

The gender pay gap is determined by reference to payments made to employees in April 2022 and to bonuses paid over the year to 31 March 2022.

Our workforce is predominantly female. In April 2022 excluding those exclusively receiving furlough payments, QUIZ paid 873 employees and 764 or 87% were female.

Whilst we treat all applicants equally, as a predominantly womenswear fashion brand, we have found that largely we attract female applicants to work in our stores. In addition, many of our roles in-store are part time and we believe that these working patterns have tended to have greater appeal to female applicants. Most of these roles are sales advisor positions which are lower paid than the head office roles where pay rates are generally higher and we have a greater proportion of men employed.

Of the 109 men employed included in the gender pay gap analysis, 34 were engaged at head office reflecting 32% of men employed. The number of women at head office reflected 13% of women employed.

Our gender pay gap is attributable to these factors.

PAY QUARTILES

Our pay quartiles are shown below:

GENDER BONUS GAP

There are limited bonuses paid other than incentives to store and concession employees in response to certain sales targets being met or to colleagues who work at the distribution centre.

A total of 184 employees received bonus payments, 54 men and 130 women. This represents 49% of male employees and 17% of female employees.

Total bonuses paid amounted to approximately £73,000 with the bonuses paid to men amounting to £30,000.

OUR COMMITMENT TO EQUALITY

We are confident that our gender pay gap is not caused by men and women being paid differently and we have the mechanisms in place to ensure that men and women who are doing the same job, or work of the same value, are paid the same. All of our employment policies and practices consider pay and bonuses according to the role and the effectiveness of the job done and never by gender. Annual pay changes are applied equally across roles.

CLOSING THE GAP

We are committed to addressing our gender pay gap and will continue to support the development of all our colleagues and in particular our talented female colleagues into Senior Management roles. We are a creative and dynamic business, and we will relentlessly support women and men to develop to the best of their potential.

We stand by the fact that there are no male or female roles, only people and their individual capabilities.

To do this, we will focus on the following areas to help address the gap:

- Have an inclusive culture where there are opportunities for all to progress;
- Ensure new roles at head office and senior roles are advertised and available to all colleagues to apply for using our internal communication channels;
- Offer training and development opportunities to encourage and attract store colleagues to apply for corporate roles within the company; and
- Encourage flexible working practices where possible to encourage a more inclusive culture.

We are committed to reducing this gap and we will continue to focus on women having the same opportunities for senior roles as men and build on each person's strengths and skills in order that they can achieve their full potential and enjoy a rewarding and inspiring career here at QUIZ.

I can confirm that the information within this report is accurate.
